

Soldiers at the national palace are showing signs of alarm regarding the shipment of 15,000 rifles from Vera Cruz to-morrow.

The repelling campaign can be described as being carried on vigorously and there is little doubt that the number of men now ready for service is greater than ever before. It is believed that to land this shipment would be embarrassing to the war department.

The campaign had been under consideration for several hours today the credentials of the new members of the government were being prepared by the message for delivery on Thursday.

There was a noticeable relaxation from the tension of the past few days as it was known that the embassy was about to leave.

Relaxation that no immediate action would be taken at Vera Cruz.

Because rebels menace the town of Oriente, and communication between the two cities is cut off, Vera Cruz is threatened, foreigners are landing on the coast in large numbers. They see a possibility of being bottled up in Mexico City and every train to Vera Cruz is loaded to its capacity.

The rebels are, however, fortifying strategic points about the city. He says he will be able to resist rebel attack.

There is a large proportion of the keenly alive to the necessity of bringing present conditions to an end and the intervention as the only relief in sight.

Mexican officials here seem to be plugging, and are quoted as stating that they are satisfied there will be no intervention.

National American Spirit.

A singular fact noticeable here and abroad is the strong national anti-American spirit among the Mexican people. The efforts of certain newspapers to bring the situation to the notice of the public have met with little success. Similes and metaphors of revolution filled the streets of Mexico City, and many students here today to make the advent of another revolution were shocked to find that the character of the present administration was not that of the party of the people.

It is believed, however, that a diplomatic reception would be given by Senor Huerta to the American Ambassador, if the official tomorrow gave rise to a story of his residence in the capital.

It is believed, however, that Senor Huerta had decided to hold the rank of the inadequate accommodations of the home of the Huertas in Liverpool street, residence of the Mexican president. Since the arrival of the Ambassador, the historic place it has been given a complete overhauling by painters and decorators.

REBELS TAKE VICTORIA AFTER BLOODY BATTLE

Washington, Nov. 18.—With the loss of hundreds of men and destruction of property in what General Pablo Gonzales, rebel commander-in-chief, operating General Luis Cabrera, in northern Tamaulipas, the victory of the revolution. Victoria capital was captured by the constitutionalists early today.

The state department is looking for the insurgents' insurrectionary movement to spread throughout the state of Tamaulipas, which would complete the conquest of the states of Tamaulipas, which would complete the Mexican states. Consular reports to date indicate that the success of the constitutionalists is probably due to the concentration of the forces of the north and south of Victoria turned up to the hills of Habsbergen and Carranza and his constitutionalist supporters.

State department advice made public today indicated that the insurgents' movement is regarded here as very important because of the success of the constitutionalists' obtaining possession of the rich oil field in the east and west of Victoria, which would enormously strengthen them.

Formerly, the oil fields of the state of Tamaulipas were controlled by the military operations there. The insurgents' movement is regarded here as very important because of the success of the constitutionalists' obtaining possession of the rich oil field in the east and west of Victoria, which would enormously strengthen them.

On the coast, the rebels have been shot out of their bases, and after being driven from a Catholic church, they have been scattered.

Every one of these bases was taken by the rebels, who commanded the besieging constitutionalists, led by their report to Jimenes and the rebels' bases from the north and south of Victoria, which was taken after being driven from a Catholic church, they have been scattered.

The greater portion of the garrison of 3,000 men, however, evacuated the town of Tula, some miles away, when the rebels overran the constitutionalists and again decisively defeated them.

They fled demoralized into the hills, generally Rabago, Arriagada and Fugenio Aguilar attacking constitutionalists were reported to number 1,000 men. This loss was four officers and 300 men. The rebels had been scattered and that the majority of life had run into the hundreds.

A NATION'S BIRTH-THROES.

Two expressions coined recently, one in Washington and the other in Mexico City, summarize vividly the inner significance of the Mexican situation and cast prophetic shadows over Mexico's future. "The mills of the gods grind slow," said a member of Wilson's administration, in explaining the gradual but inexorable policy of this government. "Our race is descended from the noble Aztecs crossed with the blood of that other splendid people (the Spaniards) that once dominated the western world," writes a flamboyant and grandiloquent Mexican in El Imparcial, the official organ of Huerta.

"The mills of the gods" have ground exceedingly slow with the people of Mexico. They will continue to grind slowly. "The dislodging of Huerta is only the beginning of the beginning. After that will come the reconstruction of a people infinitely more painful, infinitely more tedious than the reconstruction through which the south passed in the '60's. Everything about Mexico has been gradual, easy-moving. The whole nation is an illustration of the moving tragedy that follows when learning and culture and knowledge is kept at the top stratum. The underlying strata are, mainly, densely ignorant, now rebellious, but striking out blindly and without a guiding intelligence. The poor predominate. He inherited poverty and submission from his father. The old adventurous Spanish explorers and soldiers conquered the Aztecs, once themselves a fine, cultured and martial people. But the mixture of races of which our Mexican friend boasts with such pitiful fertility appears to have been a sorry bargain for the masses of the people.

For filtering down through the generations, the Mexican seems to have lost that steel-like stamina and the breadth of outlook which distinguished the Aztec half of his ancestors. He is not a fighter, but a fighter, ineffective and without personal ambition. His passage under the yoke seems to have crushed the spirit from him. He is little known by the mighty influences which civilization has found for advancement and development. The upper classes are refined and trained to a nio, mostly in the big European universities. You will find nowhere in the world a more charming and accomplished society. But the deadline between the classes and the masses is as distinct and merciless as the timber line on Pike's Peak. And that is the whole trouble with Mexico. The foundation has been neglected. And how the elements of the foundation are in revolt, seething and squirming, seeking for light and not knowing precisely where to turn to find it.

Thus it is that the events of the past two years constitute really the birth-throes of a nation almost brand-new to civilization. Mexico has never been self-reliant. The Diaz regime was born of self-reliance.

No one knows what the people may be capable of doing, for they have never been tested with the weapons and implements of the twentieth century, or even the nineteenth century. Outside of the ruling classes, about one-half of one per cent of the population, Mexico of today is medieval.

So that whether we intervene, which would be a calamity, or whether Mexico reforms from the ... progress toward modern standards and practices will be tortuous and protracted over many decades. Whether or not we like it, our task and our obligation of guardianship will be a long one. Nolens volens, the United States is in the position of the trained nurse who must stay on the case until the patient is well. And in this case the patient is the whole country, backwardness of centuries' growth and standing.

AN IDEAL APPOINTMENT.

The appointment by Governor O'Neal, of Alabama, of Frank P. Glass, editor of the Birmingham News, to fill the unexpired term in the United States Senate of Senator Joseph F. Johnston, is ideal from every point of view. No man in Alabama is made of finer senatorial timber than Mr. Glass. For many years he has been conspicuously identified with the journalism of the state. His outlook and his policies have been invariably of a constructive character. He is one of the rare type of progressives who do not insist on the label, and whose labors for the public welfare do not take their origin in selfish opportunism. He is a builder from the start, and in matters of public policy as sound and staunch as an oak.

Mr. Glass is peculiarly close to and in sympathy with President Wilson. He was a pupil under him at Princeton, and has since kept pace with democratic ideas, now held in common throughout the country. It was he who put Oscar Underwood in the presidential race to succeed Senator Johnston in the Senate. From first to last his service to his party, as to his state, has been devoid of self-seeking and smallness.

Students of the new constitutional amendment are uncertain if, under the conditions of that measure which extended the direct elective principle to senatorships, a governor has a right to appoint for an ad interim term without specific legislative authority to do so. Governor O'Neal originally designated Representative Henry Clayton, of Alabama, for the vacancy. Before Mr. Clayton's right to the seat was put to test by the senate he withdrew his credentials, largely through the personal urging of President Wilson, who wanted the assistance of Mr. Clayton, in his capacity as chairman of the house judiciary committee, in important legislation to develop this winter. The technicality involved in ad interim gubernatorial appointments is, therefore, still unsolved.

The Constitution hopes sincerely the senate will rule affirmatively in this case, for Mr. Glass' service in the senate will be a credit not only to Alabama, but to her sister states as well.

THE LIFTED THE GAUNTLET.

In significant coincidence with Georgia Products Day, two well-known merchants of Atlanta yesterday picked up, in communications to The Constitution, the gauntlet thrown down by R. E. Trussell, postmaster at Woodland, in Talbot county, relative to the patronage of home industries. Mr. Trussell inquired in Sunday's Constitution if the mail order houses of Atlanta let concerns in the east and west take million annuals out of Georgia.

The answer made by two representative business men of Atlanta is that Mr. Trussell is in error. They point to their books as evidence of big patronage of Atlanta houses from the rural districts. Significantly, they indicate that if people on the rural free delivery route will watch the daily and the Tri-Weekly Constitution for advertisements, and act upon them, they can do effective work toward encouraging trade with the folk at home.

There is every reason why Atlanta should eventually be one of the biggest mail order centers in the country. The city, by reason of its strategic location and its rail way and mail connections, is already headquarters for the cardinal industries and the great corporations of this section. Its point of vantage as a distributing center should give it the same priority with regard to the mail order business. And it should be remembered that Atlanta is the nation's capital of a tremendous mail order business, factories to supply them, and corps of workers to man both offices and factories.

Congress wants to adjourn for Thanksgiving. The whole country could observe the day with greater heart if congress adjourned indefinitely, after passing the currency bill.

Amen! Says The Constitution.

Editor Constitution: I have for years been a constant reader of your paper. I am very much interested in your "Georgia products" column for several reasons.

First—I was born in Chester County, Georgia, November 18, 1871, one year before makes me 76 years old, and wholly a "Georgia product."

Second—My father died in the back hill during a "possum" and we had some "tobacco" he had raised. We also had home-raised mother made some lye hominy and made some bacon.

Third—We often been advised to see young men keep their seats in a crowded car, while the ladies stand.

An approaching may-as-you-can-see stand where she thought the rear platform would be, while the car would come to a stand. She never did, and when she got off she ran and touched the car, but before she could get foot upon the step, a crowd of about 200 people, mostly men, rushed forward and game at Riverside and on their way to Grant Park, rushed up, shouting and pushing, and kept her standing on the rear platform of the former, and the crowd backed with them, running and lifting his hat before her first.

Many of the others had been directly at her, and she was soon surrounded by a crowd of 200. At last, inside, she found every seat occupied. A young man on the single rear platform, who had been holding a woman, got up and held her up, and the woman, who was a college girl, ran to him and said, "I'm sorry, I'm late."

She then sat down, and the man, who was a young man, got up and held her up, and the woman, who was a college girl, ran to him and said, "I'm sorry, I'm late."

Then she took out a cigarette and lit it, and the man, who was a young man, got up and held her up, and the woman, who was a college girl, ran to him and said, "I'm sorry, I'm late."

Georgia-Auburn Game Will Be Played at Poncey Park; Dope From Rival Camps

The Georgia-Auburn football game of Saturday will be played at Poncey Park, J. Irvin Davis, manager of the University of Georgia eleven, made this announcement yesterday afternoon.

Tech offered the free use of Grant field to the two teams, and it was thought more likely that the game would be staged there.

The admission fee will probably be the same as have been prevailing all season: $1 general admission and 25 cents extra for reserved seats, with $1 extra for parking autos.

The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The officials will be named today. The news from the rival camps is printed below.

AUBURN ELEVEN WORKING SLOWLY

Hard Game With Vanderbilt Curse—Hart May Be Unable to Play—Taylor May Return to Line-Up.

Athens, Ala., November 18.—(Special) —The Auburn eleven will engage only in light workouts this week, as the team has been through a strenuous session of training with the University of Georgia Saturday at Atlanta.

The team is in good shape after the hard game with Vanderbilt Saturday, and this condition will be maintained by long signal drills and short scrimmages, the coaches said.

Coach Donahue hopes to maintain that stride.

One of Auburn's four fullbacks, was the only man seriously injured in the Vanderbilt game, and his mates keep him out of the battle for the title. It is believed that he will be ready for the eleven, but considerable care is exercised, as the coaches are anxious to avoid this weight back again.

The Line-Up.

Auburn's line-up is not yet settled as yet. There may be some changes before Saturday, but it is generally considered that the line-up will be used as follows:

Halfback, Hart (left end); Thompson, right guard; Louis (center); Lockwood, right guard; Pendleton, right tackle; Newell (captain), left half; Kell (right end).

This will give Auburn the heaviest eleven that she has put on this season.

For All Motors

Up-keep cost, in large degree, varies with the body quality of the lubricant used in a motor. A body that thins under heat or high speed increases friction—lessens power, wears out parts.

Polarine is made with a body that assures correct lubrication of all motor parts at any speed and any heat. Minimizes friction. Hence, saves repair bills, gives more power.

Polarine
FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

Perfect lubrication by use of Polarine does away with frequency of tearing the main motor. Saves garage bills. Leaves your motor in splendid condition after years of operation. Brings better re-sale price.

Polarine will save its cost in fewer repair bills in the course of a year. Buy it anywhere—at garages or from accessory men. Sold in cans, by the barrel or half-barrel. Ask for Polarine.

MINOR INJURIES ONLY NOTED AFTER TECH GAME—NEW PLAYS WILL BE UNCORDED AGAINST AUBURN.

W. T. GENTRY OFFERS HANDSOME TROPHY FOR WINNER OF FIRST FLIGHT.

ATHENS, ALA., NOVEMBER 18.—(Special) Coach Cunningham sent his University golfers through a strenuous session of training with the University of Georgia Saturday at Atlanta.

The team is in excellent condition, but injuries are noted after the hard fought battle with the university eleven that carries for the southern title will be held Saturday.

Carey's injuries, it develops, were not minor and he is out in infirmary. Crump and Hart are the leaders of the entire team, as they were members of the world. But every player will be ready for the big battle.

The new plays will be presented in the tournament will be arranged at a meeting of the W. T. Gentry Golf Club Saturday at 1 p.m. The first flight will be held in the new tournament. A round robin will be followed by a second and one for the winner of the second flight will also be presented, these from the entry fees which will be $1.

MORDECAI BROWN MAY MANAGE IN FEDERAL

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 18.—Mordecai Brown, the famous three-fingered Cincinnati, may take the management of the Federal League team in story book form here Friday. Brown is quoted as saying that a representative of the W. T. Gentry Golf Club will prevail in the new tournament.

He will be the coach of the defensive formation to stop the heavy Auburn eleven.

The Green student body, accompanied by their head, will leave Saturday for Atlanta to root for their eleven in this great contest.

The Line-Up.

Georgia's line-up is an uncertain quantity. There may be a few changes, but the following is the line-up that faces the Jackets will be used:

Dunkirk (left end); Henderson, left tackle; Thompson, right end; Thompson, right guard; Pendleton, right center; McKinney, right guard; Turner, right tackle; Smith, left end; Pendleton, left guard; Hart, left center; Newell (captain), right half; Crump, fullback.

This line-up is not the heaviest, but it has played together better than any this season.

STARR TRADED.

MOBILE CAPTAIN GOES TO VOLS FOR CLAYTON PERRY.

Mobile, Ala., November 18.—Chadie Starr, field leader and second baseman for the Mobile baseball team this season, has been traded to the Nashville club. He had been with the team for nearly two years.

The significance of this deal is once apparent. Starr was in line for a place on the team next year, and when Lord was appointed over him, he was at once apparent that it would be difficult for him to remain in the club that he should be uprooted.

Nashville gets a very valuable man in Starr, while in Perry, Mobile gets a useful day in and day out performer.

U. S. ARMY CHARGERS WIN FIRST TWO PLACES

NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 18.—America was the victor in the international football competition at the national horse show at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, the blue ribbon award, "Deceivers," exhibited by Lieutenant Waldo G. Potter, first field artillery, was secured by the Army. The Army, in the British service, took third place with his bay mare, "Harmontia," which was mounted and exhibited by Captain R. A. Hall, sixth cavalry.

Clarence H. Mackay, captain of the blue ribbon class for one-year-old hackney stallions with "Lord Balfour," won the blue ribbon. "Lord Balfour" was the only one to win the blue ribbon award, "Deceivers," exhibited by Lieutenant Waldo G. Potter, first field artillery, was secured by the Army. The conference comprises about 150 members of the colored Methodist Episcopal church, which convenes in Atlanta, Ga., on November 19. The street churches are expecting a spirited discussion over the suggestion that the Negroes should be permitted to continue. Some of the members claim that the Negroes should be admitted, and that all effort should be directed toward their welfare. The Negroes among the negroes working in the conference declare that it would be a shame to let them in with the white people, as they do not know what they should do away with the Negroes.

GUARD OF CONVICTS IS HELD ON CHARGE OF AIDING ESCAPE

Mountaine, Ga., November 18.—Spectators—Two of the three convicts who were caught last night in Atlanta by officers here, returned to the local jail after being held in custody. The two caught were John Hutchens and Will Burdette, both of whom were captured from Burke county for burglary, under sentence of fifteen and five years respectively. The third convict, Moore, has not been apprehended. He was also held in custody, but was released because of the numerous boasts that had been made on him in different states to the effect that he had escaped. The plan was to have him sent to the state prison at Plymouth Rock raising in the south for the past fifteen years. Air Bertling and Sam P. Hartwell, both of whom were held in custody, were held for years with the progress of poultry here, and were held in custody until the trial was held in Atlanta December 1 to 6.

Boosting Liners Over the Continental Divide

Think of a huge bath-tub—

One-fifth of a mile long, as high as a 6-story house, with walls 45 feet thick at the floor—

And you will have some idea of the size of the six giant locks in your Panama Canal.

Do you realize there is enough concrete in these locks to build houses for as many people as live in Indianapolis?

At the ends of these concrete basins are iron gates. And they are gates with a vengeance!

Think of masses of steel 88 feet high, 65 feet wide and a matter of 7 feet thick—with hinges tipping the scales to 70,000 lbs. for the pair!

As easily as your boy takes his toy boat out of the bath-tub will ocean steamers be lifted out of the Atlantic Ocean and carefully set down in the Pacific.

We live in the day of big things, but your Panama Canal from start to finish is the most colossal single thing the hand of man has done.

Every man and woman in the land who is proud to be an American should read this timely American book:

THE PANAMA CANAL

by Frederic J. Haskin

Author of "The American Government".

As you turn the pages of this absorbing book you will learn about the locks and their mechanism, the tremendous Culebra Cut and the giant Gatun Dam. You will read of the wonderful care our Government has taken of the 50,000 men who did the work, and of the same wonderful care it will take of the small army of employees who will stay on the Isthmus to put the ships through.

You will read of the provisions for the comfort of globe trotters
